

Attorneys Start With $105 U. S. O. Contribution Here

Special City Judge Raymond J. Mino, Lloyd R. LeFever and Dorr E. Monroe, members of the lawyer's committee in the local U. S. O. drive submitted a report of the first day's solicitation for the fund. The committee had seen 17 lawyers and had collected a total of $105. The committee plans to continue its work until every member of the Ulster County Bar has been seen.

Secretary George Goodfellow of the "Y" who is serving as secretary of the U. S. O. drive, also reported last night that subscriptions totaling approximately $50 had been received in the mail by Edward Coykendall, treasurer of the drive.

The initial gifts committee headed by Senator Arthur H. Wicks also started operations yesterday, and will submit a report later.

There are a number of special committees organized and they started work Tuesday, and the drive will be brought to a close on Saturday with a house to house canvass.

Kingston's quota is fixed at $4,700, but those in charge of the drive expect that this amount will be largely exceeded when the final returns are in.

This is the American ship Robin Moor, whose sinking brought a request from the White House that the public reserve judgment in the case. ### Sergeant Hopkins Sells Property in Ellenville

Sergeant John Hopkins in charge of the Ellenville station of the State Police yesterday sold his property at 9 Centre street, Ellenville, to Abraham Levine, Ellenville butcher. Possession will be given in August.

The property, which includes an acre of land, was for many years owned by Frank Bush, father of George H. Bush, lawyer and prominent member of Assembly. It was purchased by Sergeant Hopkins in 1929 and the house has been enlarged and improved.

Sergeant Hopkins has purchased from George M. Hoornbeek of Wawarsing 30 acres of land on the east side of Route 209 and just opposite the state colony farm at Wawarsing and about two miles south of Kerhonkson. The property has a frontage of a thousand feet on the state road and runs back to the Rondout creek.

A six-room house will be erected at once and work on the foundation already is under way. The Sergeant expects to have his new home ready for himself and family by September.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Fifty-Fifty

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—School officials checked and double-checked, but could find no mistake in the total enrollment of grade school children. The count was: Boys 1679, girls 1679.

Love and War

New York—It wasn't so much her husband's imitating of Adolf Hitler at parties by loosening a forelock, smearing on a burnt-cork mustache and raising his right arm in salute, Mrs. Stella Peters said in suing for a separation.

It was his habit of waking her in the middle of the night to listen to short-wave broadcasts from Germany, she complained.

Court reserved decision when it was learned she is of French descent; her husband, Herbert, German-born.

Commendable Conduct

Falls City, Neb.—Conductor Earl Schenck wouldn't let a mere flood lick him.

He doffed his pants to wade ahead of a Burlington switch engine, testing the track at the locomotive plowed slowly through high water to rescue a stalled car of wheat.

Holed Out

Portland, Ore.—The hole moved as fast as Mrs. Nettie Thorne's golf ball so her hole-in-one didn't count.

Mrs. Thorne took careful aim, then smacked the ball. It flew true to the green and plopped into the cup. But—

A groundskeeper went right on with his work. By the time the ball arrived, he had cut a new hole and removed the flag from the one into which the ball dropped.

Flights' End

San Diego—Fifty co-eds sunbathing on the roof of the San Diego State Women's College gymnasium caused an aerial traffic jam.

The massed flights by cadets from an air school brought a complaint from the girls. The college asked that it be made a closed flying area, but no action resulted.

The problem will be solved today—the semester ends.

The Mail Gets Through

Superior, Neb.—Star route car-

A., and there was a steady stream of visitors to the show that day. About 500 persons attended. The show will be brought to a close this evening, and it is expected that the attendance today will be even larger than that of the opening day.

While the men visitors to the show yesterday spent the greatest amount of time in front of the exhibits of miniature railroad cars, firearms, miniature flying machines and stamp displays, the girls and women viewed with interest the large display made by Mrs. William J. McVey of the work of her pupils in metal working at the Y. W. C. A. Here articles of copper, pewter, brass and silver are displayed.

Among Mrs. McVey's pupils whose work is shown are Mrs. Edward I. McCaffery, Mrs. Charles Ramsey, Mrs. Robert Burns, Mrs. Harry Kaprellian, Mrs. George Simpkins, Mrs. H. S. Simmons, Miss Clarissa Smith, Mrs. Willis

Nash, Mrs. Allen Baker, Mrs. C. J. Heiselman, Miss Matilda Martin, Mrs. M. B. Elias, Mrs. Maurice W. Veno and Mrs. Henry Page. Mrs. Frank Buntin of Howland avenue has an interesting display of crocheted articles.

Walter Powell of Albany avenue is displaying a reflector telescope of his own manufacture. An interesting hobby is that of Nicholas Kluepfel of this city of paintings on glass. He has several examples of his art.

An exhibit of wood carving is made by Janice Reben of the Sawkill road.

Marian Woods of Woodstock is showing a variety of handbags and mittens, while Tam F. Kennedy of Woodstock is showing wood cuts, flower prints and an exhibit of tools.

A fine display of handcraft is exhibited by Edith Roberts Cook of Woodstock, while Rose and Marjorie Petrucci of Woodstock have part of their large lace collection displayed.

Michael Petrucci of Woodstock is showing examples of his wood carving, and Jane F. Kennedy of Woodstock a collection of color prints and original blocks.

Those who visited the Hobby Show yesterday were surprised at the many varied hobbies that are being exhibited, and those who viewed the exhibits said it was undoubtedly the largest and finest Hobby Show ever staged in Kingston.

Last night the Eighth Grade Marionette Club of Saugerties gave three showings of the new version of Cinderella, the familiar old fairy story, in the Marionette Theatre which is set up in one of the rooms adjoining the gymnasium.

trunk to the island, were arrested as material witnesses for helping Picatello dispose of the body, although both of them—Joseph Attuso, 52, and Nicholas Longo, 44—denied they knew what the trunk contained.

They were released when Deputy Police Inspector Michael McDermott said he was convinced of their innocence.

Detective Vito Christiano of the Missing Persons Bureau was credited with solving the mystery. The woman's husband, Nathan, who reported his wife missing June 3 was taken by Christiano to view the body in the trunk and identification followed. The detective learned Mrs. Siegel had attended a party at Picatello's apartment May 30 and had not been heard from since.

Last night, Christiano, accompanied by other detectives and Siegel, knocked on Picatello's door, which bore a card inscribed "Charlie Chan."

"Where's the trunk, Charlie?" the detective asked.

Christiano said the handyman did not answer at first, but then broke down and confessed.

Lieut.-Governor Warns Against 'False Security'

Albany, N. Y., June 11 (AP)—Lieut.-Governor Charles Poletti cautioned today that progress in national defense "must not lull us into a sense of false security or into a feeling that we have plenty of time."

"We must, all of us, be prepared for greater efforts and for greater sacrifice," Poletti, who also is state defense coordinator, told the New York Mayors' Conference.

He disclosed the W.P.A. will allocate $255,000 to New York state to provide clerical staffs for local defense councils.

The state's plan of mobilizing regular police resources, rather than organizing volunteers, offers the most effective law enforcement ment procedure during the emergency, Bruce Smith, New York city consultant to police, told the conference in a prepared address.

Daniel Beard Dies at Suffern to New York and got a job as surveyor for a map publishing company. On an expedition which took him all over the country east of the Mississippi from the Gulf to the Great Lakes, his pencil turned to sketching.

When a New York magazine published his drawing of fishes, he dropped the tripod and chain for serious study of art. In four years his work had won its way into many periodicals and books.

At the same time the shift back to city life had turned his attention to the predicament of boys whom he saw playing in the streets. He used to tell of a visit he made to the city in 1878. Rows of flats, he said, bore owners' signs: "No dogs or children wanted."

"These fools have built an immense city without any place for the young at all," he told his friends. He started a written and spoken campaign for parks and for the popularization of outdoor recreation.

Reared in Cincinnati

He taught the boys outdoor handicrafts and organized the Boy Pioneers and Sons of Daniel Boone, forerunners of the scout organization which he lived to see grow to several million members in 48 states and with counterparts throughout the world.

Beard—"Dan Beard" to millions of boys—was born June 21, 1850, at Cincinnati. He was the son of James H. Beard, one of America's leading painters in those days, and Mary Caroline Beard.

His education was received in Cincinnati public schools and at Worrall's Academy, Covington, Ky. He married Beatrice Alice Jackson of Newton, Long Island, August 15, 1894. Their children were Barbara and Daniel Bartlett Beard.

Some of Beard's books were: "Moonlight and Six Feet of Romance"; "The American Boy's Handy Book"; "The Buckskin Book"; "The Buckskin Calendar"; "Bugs, Butterflies and Beetles"; "American Boy's Book of Birds"; "Brownies in the Woods"; and "American Boy's Book of Camp Lore and Woodcraft."

Italy is planning construction of a plant to recover magnesium and bromine from sea water, the Department of Commerce reports.

Rose Barley, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barley of Sleightsburgh, is in the Benedictine Hospital, where her conditions this morning were reported to be serious, following injuries sustained when she was struck by an automobile near the intersection of 9-W and the Sleightsburgh road about 9:45 Tuesday night.

The little girl crossed the state highway to purchase an ice cream cone and was returning to join her mother, who awaited her on the other side of the road, when she was struck by a car driven by George L. Barnes of 64 Bergen avenue, Ridgfield, N. J.

Barnes, who was accompanied by Leighton Rollins of 663 Locust street, Mt. Vernon, and who was driving north at the time, immediately stopped his car and took the injured girl to the Benedictine Hospital, where it was said she was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull.

Barnes reported the accident to the sheriff's office and an investigation was made by Sheriff Molyneux, Deputies Vredenburg, McCullough and Winne and Troopers Metzger and Baker of the B.C.I. Following the investigation the officers held that Barnes was blameless, since apparently the little girl ran directly into the oncoming car. Neither Barnes nor Rollins was held.

MOUNTING HIGHWAY PERIL

The National Safety Council makes a sad report on highway accidents for the first four months of this year. The death toll at the end of April was 16 per cent higher than that for the same period in 1940. The number of traffic fatalities was 10,780. Motoring in the United States is as deadly as war in Europe.

The situation is not uniformly bad all over the country. Most of the increase in accidents was found in rural districts. A number of cities have greatly curtailed traffic deaths. Memphis, for example, led all cities with an 82 per cent reduction. It had no traffic deaths at all in March and April. New York City had a 19 per cent reduction which, it is estimated, saved 59 lives in four months.

If any states and cities can cut down the number of highway accidents, why can not all? What is the factor which makes it possible for one community to make traffic safety principles effective while others, supposedly as intelligent, ignore them and suffer tragic consequences? Daily newspapers, automobile clubs, public schools, police forces, and other groups and individuals have all shown growing interest in solving this problem, but there is much more work for all to do.

MILITARY OBLIGATIONS

Young men in the camps provided for "conscientious objectors" are finding their lot more tolerable than it was for their predecessors in the last war. They have no military duties or drill, but are engaged in noncombatant work that is useful in varying degrees.

Some of the men, though, are unhappy and resentful because they have been taken from profitable jobs and forced to work for nothing. This attitude is understandable but doesn't seem to call for much sympathy.

One thing particularly should be realized by such discontented draftees. And not by them only, but by all men drafted into the army and all who may be drafted in the future. It is the fact that every American owes a debt to his country, by virtue of his citizenship and his civic rights and opportunities. It is a larger debt than most of us ever pay.

Military service is one obvious way of discharging this obligation, recognized and practiced in nearly all nations. There are times and places where such payment is inconvenient, but the principle cannot be challenged. Without it there could be no secure social order for citizenship.

Most of us have been in danger of forgetting our general civic obligations, regardless of our status or age. It is a good thing now to think about them.

BUSINESS MEN'S ERRORS

According to Dr. Edgar V. Allen of the Mayo Clinic, the doctor's best customer is the business man. And that is only partly because he can pay. He is a profitable patient because in general he is subject to five vices. He drinks too much, smokes too much, eats too much, works too much and is too ambitious.

Bad eating habits, the doctor observes, "wreck courage and undermine the will." And ambition may be just as bad.

"It seems," he says, "that we do not question whether the results of ambition, that is, the possession of money, fame and success, are really worth while. Haven't the objectives of life become a bit distorted?"

Perhaps doctors, business men and philosophers should get together and work these things out more rationally.

TRUE AMERICAN

The judge was questioning a group of aliens who were about to become citizens. One of them, Goldie Kramer, had studied long and hard, learning many things about the Constitution, Congress, the Supreme Court, and all the rest. She was afraid of the examination, but got through it all right. Then the judge put one more question.

"Do you love this country?" he asked. And Goldie suddenly was not afraid. She smiled happily. "Oh, Judge, what a question! Do I love it? Who wouldn't love such a country? Forty years I been here. My oldest boy he died in France. My grandson will fly an airplane soon for the Army. Judge, even if you gave me some other countries, gave them to me free—just like that—I wouldn't take them. But America, Judge—America is for me—and me, I'm for America!"

Goldie's story is told in "Common Ground," a quarterly published to tell Americans about each other and to discover for all the foundation of the nation's unity and greatness. There are many Goldies in this country today, of many different Old World backgrounds. But they are "for America" with no reservations. Older Americans, of so-called "native stock," have nothing to fear from such adopted citizens who know, ungrammatically but deeply and truly, what America has been and should continue to be.

Nature is just naturally queer, as in the case of Eskimos, who always catch cold when they come south where it's warm.

The human race seems less so than usual just now.

 HAY FEVER SEASON

Although the hay fever season does not arrive until late in August, if you have in mind taking injections to prevent or relieve the attack, your physician would like to get you started at least six weeks ahead of the hay fever season; that is, some time in June.

There is no question but that these injections usually given twice a week for six weeks before the hay fever season, have "cured" many cases. It is true also that sometimes the series of injections must be given for three or four years, before satisfactory results are obtained. It is also only too true that despite the fact that ragweed pollen causes the attack, the injection of ragweed pollen for as many as six years in succession has failed to cure some cases.

If the injections of ragweed pollen fail to give relief, is there any other treatment available?

A couple of years ago, Dr. Philip Franklin, in the British Medical Journal, recorded the results of treatment of 776 clinic patients with hay fever during 1938 by the use of "electric" treatments, which used the ionization current.

The nose is sprayed with a weak solution of a local anesthetic and packed with thin squares of cotton wool reinforced by a single layer of gauze soaked in a 1 per cent solution of zinc sulphate. After the packing, the patient goes to the ionization treatment room and is treated with an ionization set connected to an electric supply derived from a special battery. Treatment is given for fifteen minutes and the nose is then unpacked. Treatment is given immediately before the onset of hay fever or at the beginning of the attack.

Of the 776 cases, about 10 per cent were free from hay fever during the season, 35 per cent greatly improved, 46 per cent received slight benefit, 8 per cent received no benefit, and 2 per cent were made worse.

Last year I spoke of a new treatment used in 50 cases by Dr. C. S. Bucher, Champaign, Ill., recorded in Medical World. It consists of the injection of the extract of the front part of the pituitary gland (15 drops, equal to 18½ grains of the fresh gland) once a day for seven to ten days, then three times a week for two weeks, twice a week for two weeks, and about once a week thereafter until 24 injections in all have been given. Treatment is begun about two months before the usual time of onset of hay fever. Satisfactory results were obtained in 82 per cent of the cases.

Allergy

Allergy or sensitivity to various foods and other substances causes many symptoms such as those of hay fever, migraine, eczema, stomach upsets, hives and others. Send today for Dr. Barton's helpful booklet entitled Allergy (No. 106). Address your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mailing and mention the name of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

SAVES RAIN AND SOIL

Proof that farmers can hold their soils in place and produce greatly increased yields by applying conservation methods such as terracing and contour tillage appears in the new U. S. Department of Agriculture booklet, "Better Harvests Through Conservation Farming."

Terraces have increased cotton yields on identical fields by an average of 68 pounds to the acre over a period of 12 years at Spur, Texas, the booklet says. This means an average annual dividend of $6.50 an acre for conservation farming. Records from a dozen areas in the Great Plains show that yields of beans, wheat and grain sorghums increased greatly under conservation farming.

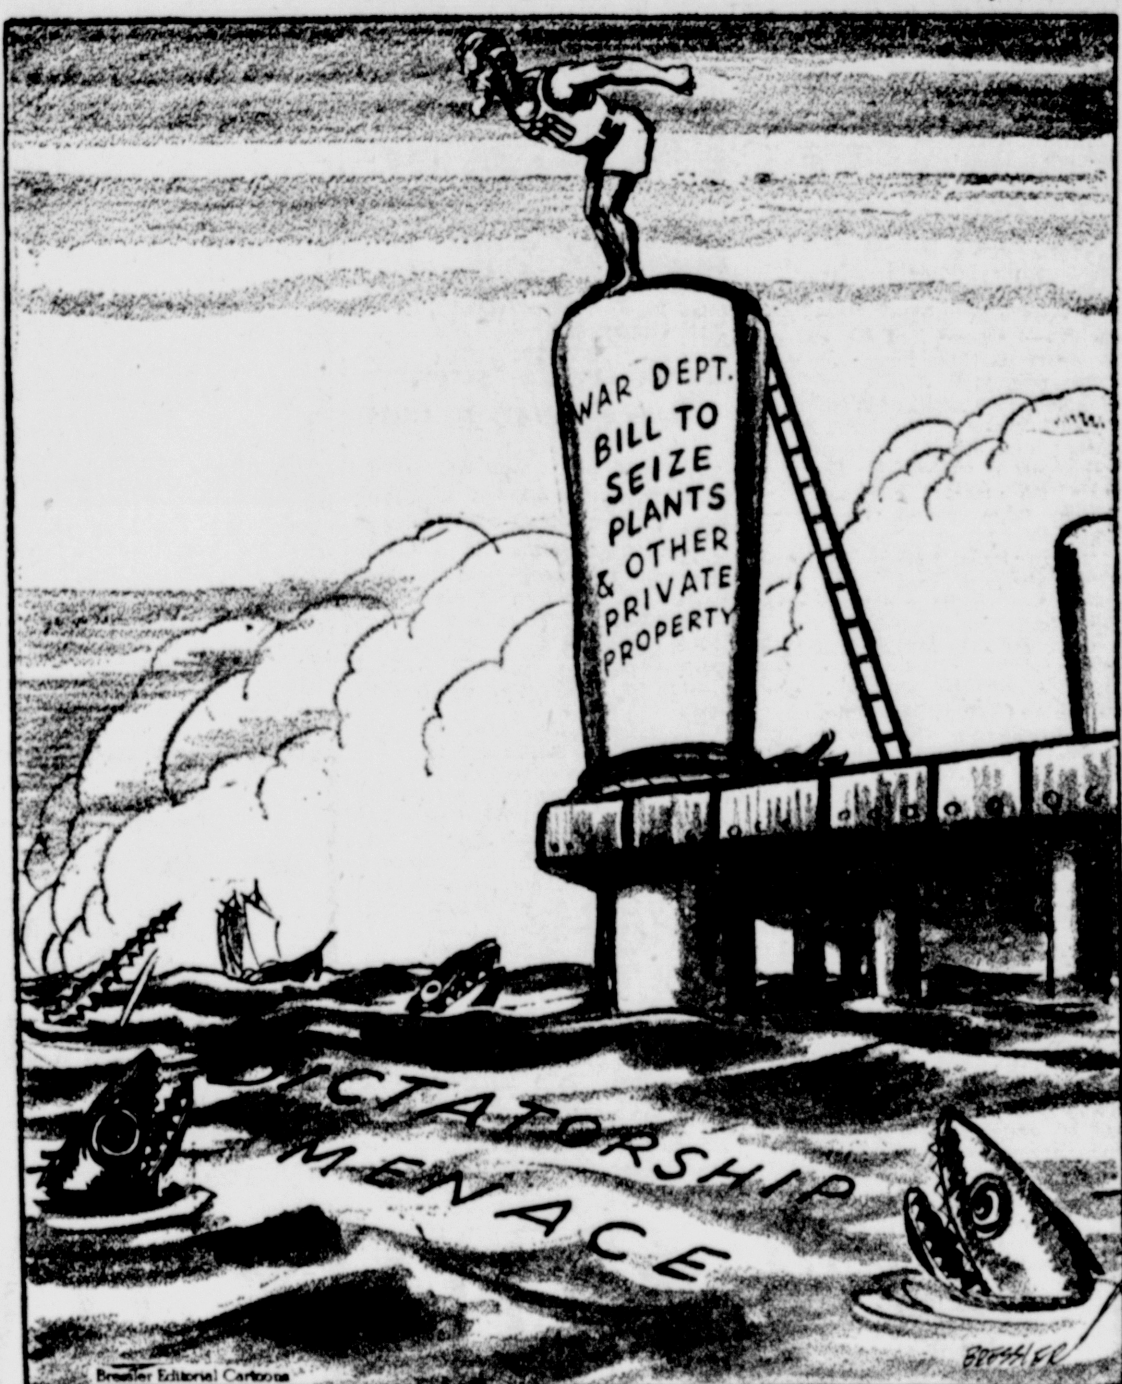

R. E. Uhlend, author of "Better Harvests Through Conservation Farming," says one great advantage of conservation treatment is that it takes the fullest advantage of the rain that falls. Terraces and contour tillage, he says, hold the rainfall in the ground instead of permitting it to drain off.

After a rain on fields treated in this way, the water stands in the furrows and terraces, where it fell, until it has soaked into the soil. On fields cultivated in straight rows, however, the rain water courses down the furrows as fast as it falls.

A great deal of it is lost. In agricultural regions where rainfall is scarce, say 10 to 20 inches a year, lost rain water means lost production.

Copies of "Better Harvests Through Conservation Farming" may be obtained free from local offices of the Soil Conservation Service or by writing to that agency in Washington, D. C.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—A 20-year-old Minnesota miss steps out on the floor at a dance she didn't want to come to. She is wearing her "oldest formal." She is without make-up.

After a while she and a number of other girls are tapped and asked to walk up and down the floor. Pretty soon, five judges go into a huddle and come out to announce that Bette Larson, only three months out of small-town Barnum, Minn. (although she has lived some time in Duluth), has been chosen as "Miss National Defense."

It's another chapter in the book of "Life in Washington"—because the national capital is the most queen-conscious city in the world. Once a year, every department and many of the larger agencies take a "milkshake" trip to the Potomac or assemble at dances and select their "queens."

There's a Miss Treasury, a Miss Labor, a Miss Government Printing Office (generally referred to as Miss GPO), a Miss Congressional Secretary, a Miss War Department and dozens of others. This business isn't confined to government employees either. When "Miss Washington" was selected recently for the annual beauty contest at Atlantic City, there was more hubbub and fuss than most towns have over a hot city election and the winner, native-born 17-year-old Jean Cavalligh, daughter of a prominent Tacoma Park physician, already is about as prominent a local personality as one of the cabinet members.

Washington even has the national queen of the Negro college students—Charlotte Wesley, a senior at Howard University here.

It Just Started

Just how it all started and why the queen business has boomed so here are twin mysteries that no one seems able to answer. All of about as prominent a local personality as one of the cabinet members.

Those Who Are Laboring to Keep Law and Order in America Deserve Notice
 (By DAVID LAWRENCE)

Washington, June 11.—The unsung heroes of the battle to preserve law and order in America as against saboteurs and strike instigators deserve attention as public opinion seeks to discover the causes of the extremes which have lately enveloped the labor movement.

There has just come to hand, for instance, a dissenting opinion written by Judge Harold Stephens of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia which reveals better than any other document of its kind why industrial unrest is fomented and why violence is bred in industrial disputes.

Judge Stephens did an unusual thing. He actually read word for word the lengthy stereographic record of a case before the National Labor Relations Board and then he proceeded to disclose its errors. It required 17 printed pages amounting to about 50,000 words to make a complete analysis of the abuse of power by the labor board counsel and its examiner.

Unfortunately, two judges rubber-stamped the labor board's ruling in a few pages of a majority opinion, but Judge Stephens felt it desirable to call public attention to the flagrant mishandling of litigants before the labor board examiners. Judge Stephens was formerly an assistant attorney general and was appointed to the bench by President Roosevelt. He is one of the ablest of the Roosevelt appointees and also one of the most independent.

Judge Stephens declares that the labor board mistakenly construes the law in such a way as to "condemn friendly cooperation, normal relations and innocent communications between an employer and employees," that the board denies to employers in contravention of the first amendment to the constitution freedom of speech and "that freedom of expression concerning the merits of labor disputes and organizations which has been recognized by the Supreme Court as guaranteed to employees."

He points out that the board virtually forbids an employer to participate with citizens and public officials in efforts to preserve law and order and restrains an employer from securing information for the purpose of aiding in the protection of employees and property against violence. He calls attention, moreover, to the practice of the board which, in effect, requires employees, if they are to be organized at all, to join a national union on the theory that the Wagner Act condemns local unions as such.

Since labor leaders today know that they have the labor board and its examiners behind them and that the courts under New Deal domination will uphold arbitrary action on the ground that judicial review of the board is restricted, there is an open invitation to the exploitation of workers by their officers. Organization of rival unions is as difficult as withdrawal from membership. Blacklisting.

By JOHN SELBY

"Cross Winds of Empire" by Lieut. Col. W. E. Remington

In 1932 there was another voice than Hitler's speaking about "world states." It came out of the United States Army, and belonged to Lieut. Col. Woodburn E. Remington. It spoke through a privately printed book called "World States of the Machine Age," some of whose suggestions were one state made up of the United States, England and Germany; another of France, Italy, Spain and Portugal; another, in the east, dominated by Japan. There is no way of telling what might have happened had Colonel Remington's ideas taken root—it is now too late for guessing.

But some other ideas of Colonel Remington are to be found in a book he publishes this week called "Cross Winds of Empire." These concern the Orient, more particularly the Philippines and those Chinese islands known usually as Malaya—and Japan. Before he gets round to his conclusions, he tells his reader a great deal about the Philippines, a district he knows well through having been stationed there some years. It is through that section, a travel book written with an economic and military slant, and shrewdly written. Even before he states his conclusions explicitly, the reader knows what is coming.

The first thing is Colonel Remington's convictions that we should reconsider our determination to "free" the Philippines. He has shown how Japanese penetration affects the island, and how they are at present surrounded by Japanese depots in such places as Cochin-China, among others. He claims also that even Philippine leaders are uneasily convinced, in many cases, that "independence" at such a time as this must mean actually that Japan will be free to swallow them up. He also indicates that our decision to free the islands is based on economic pressure at home, and that this is neither so strong as it seems, nor so well founded.

Obviously all our concepts of foreign policy have been wrenched into new channels by the war. Colonel Remington's ability to orientate these concepts is striking, territory he is discussing. This is the more so because most Americans are sadly ignorant about the territory he is discussing. This is a valuable book, and a timely one.

There are many older readers of this column who will recall Assistant Postmaster Edgar E. Ougheltree, who resigned his position with the post office department in May, 1918. Mr. Ougheltree at the time he resigned was completing 24 years of efficient service with the Kingston post office department, and had served under six postmasters.

William C. DeWitt was serving as postmaster the year that Mr. Ougheltree resigned.

I also recall the play "What Happened to Jones" that was given by a group of young people of St. Mary's church. Included in the cast were David Long, Andrew McCauley, Philip Doherty, Frederick Baker, Bernard O'Rourke, Francis Noonan, Margaret Kelly, Nellie Mary Oulton, Aurea Kelly, Loretta Nolan, Kathryn Harmon and Regina Hunt.

The play was successfully given in May, 1918.

'Quiz Kids' Are Honored By Trip to Scranton

The series of victories that Kingston's "Quiz Kids" have scored and which brought praise for the city and its schools, is now turning into a series of fetes for the team.

The Hudson Coal Co. sponsors of the Little Red School House at Scranton, Pa., played host to 13-year-old Leonard Rabin, a sophomore; 15-year-old Kathryn Nagy, a freshman; 15-year-old Paul Beshgetoorian, an end junior; and their alternate, Valdo Viglielmo, all of Kingston High School.

They were chaperoned to Scranton, Pa. by the local representative, Harry Rigby, Jr., and met there by Mr. Sickler, the official representative of the company.

Donned in miners equipment the "Quiz Kids" were taken down the shafts to the actual working levels of the coal mine to observe the process of mining, crushing, washing and moving the coal.

They were the guests of the company at luncheon at one of the hotels and each "Quiz Kid" received a miner's lamp as a souvenir.

Finger Bowls A Very Real Necessity Unless Nothing But Simplest of Foods Are Served

Even though a certain wedding present may not be used by Mrs. Young Married every day, this is no reason why she may not be delighted to receive it, especially if it is something that will on occasion be very useful. This is in answer to the following letter: "Since we are the best local jewellers are expected to know the answers to many customers' questions. One lately asked whether finger bowls were not a senseless present to give a bride in this day when few people can use them. I could only tell this person that we sell more now than ever before."

In addition to what I have already said, it seems to me that the possession of finger bowls is a very real necessity—unless nothing is ever served that could grease or smudge the fingers (such as whole fruit, lobster in shells, even certain kinds of toast). Moreover, I think I understand perfectly why the sales of finger bowls, candlesticks, and centerpieces are greater than ever. I think the reason is that never before have all Americans been so beauty-conscious. For many years years—and regardless of depth of purse—the American girl has been the best dressed in the world. Today the American home is the marvel of all nations. In the smallest apartment or bungalow, Mrs. Young Married's table is charmingly appointed. This however, does not mean that she may not be sensible enough to discard certain items of formality from everyday use if instead of contributing to the beauty of living, they quite seriously hamper. This is of course one that each young house-keeper finds out for herself. Even so, appointments that may be used only for a party are quite likely to be received with more pleasure than are objects of greatest utility.

Bridge Party Prizes

Dear Mrs. Post: 1. At a public lunch and card party given by a large club to raise money for war relief, may the members of the club accept bridge prizes if they happen to have high scores? These prizes are not being bought by the club but are being donated to the cause by local merchants. 2. What about the hostess who keeps her own prize? 3. Or let's a member of her family win it?

Answer: 1. If these members have bought tickets then they would of course keep any prizes they may win. 2. The behavior of the hostess who includes her own score and wins her own prize, this is of course shocking. 3. The question of whether members of her immediate family may compete for the prizes she gives depends upon whether they live elsewhere and are invited as all of the other guests are, or whether they live under the same roof. In the first case they should quite properly compete for a prize; in the second, they could not.

So many requests have been made for copies of my articles on details concerned with training camps (behavior of visitors and presents for the men) that I have had it printed as a leaflet and will be very glad to send it to anyone who sends a self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope in care of Kingston Daily Freeman.

It is a wise economy because it keeps my budget within its limits; yet it is the best I can buy. # Warneke Joins Society Of One-Hit Pitchers

Cardinal Veteran Shutout Phils in Sparkling Contest

Emmet Muller, First Man Up in Opening Frame, Gets Home Club's Lone Safety

(By The Associated Press) If baseball fans at Philadelphia don't get a no-hit game there this season they are going to be disappointed.

Various National League pitchers already have provided four one-hitters at Shibe Park—and three of them have been crowded into the past eight days.

Hank Gornicki, St. Louis rookie who since has returned to the minors, held the Phillies to a lone safety on May 3. Tommy Hughes of the Phils duplicated the trick June 3 against the Chicago Cubs. Three nights later Johnny Vander Meer of the Cincinnati Reds pitched what some of his teammates call his third no-hitter, giving the Phils one scratchy single.

Yesterday Lon Warneke, the lean veteran of the Cardinals, joined the society with a 3-0 shutout of the Phils in which the only blow was a single by Emmett Mueller, the home club's first man up in the opening inning.

The Cardinals themselves made just eight hits off St. Johnson and Bill Crouch, but these were all they needed to retain their hold on the National League lead.

There was some other fine pitching yesterday. Bob Feller achieved his 13th victory of the season and eight straight by holding the Washington Senators to four hits while the Cleveland Indians slapped out a 4 to 1 decision. It was the 14th loss in 17 games for the hapless Senators.

Steve Peck, rookie knuckleballer of the New York Yankees, had a one-hitter going into the ninth inning against the Chicago White Sox. He weakened to allow five singles and three runs in that frame, but the Yankees won easily, 8-3, and took over second place in the American League. John Rigney pitched scoreless ball for five innings, but in the sixth Frank Crosetti homered with the bases loaded and the Yanks batted around for five runs.

Bridges Fans 14 Tommy Bridges, the little veteran of the Detroit Tigers, put on a strikeout show against the Philadelphia Athletics, fanning 14, but tired badly in the late innings and had to be rescued by big Al Benton as Detroit won, 4-3. The triumph was achieved with two runs in the ninth on a pinch-double by Barney McCosky and singles by Pat Mullin and Charley Gehring.

A night game between the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns was postponed.

The Brooklyn Dodgers cut short their slump with a 4-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who were held to six hits by their old nemesis, Fred Fitzsimmons. Arky Vaughan hit a three-run homer to save the Buccaneers from a shutout. Dolph Camelli smashed his 13th round-tripper of the season for the Dodgers.

Johnny Vander Meer achieved his sixth success of the season by scattering nine hits as the World champion Cincinnati Reds beat the Boston Braves, 4-3, for their ninth conquest in 11 games and took over third place. Frank McCormick, gradually breaking out of his prolonged batting slump, hit three doubles to figure in all the Reds' runs.

Vern Olsen pitched the Chicago Cubs to an 11-0 shutout of the New York Giants on seven well-spaced hits while his teammates waded into Fiddler Bill McGee. Hank Leiber homered with the bases loaded and added a double. Bill Nicholson hit his 12th homer with two on. It was McGee's fifth straight loss as a Giant.

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Senator Bailey (D., N. C.) thinks that Hank Greenberg, conscripted Detroit baseball star, "is a bigger hero than when he was knocking home runs."

The senator used Hank as an example of young men inducted into the army who have made a "real sacrifice." He reminded the Senate yesterday that Greenberg quit a $40,000 a year job to serve his country at $21 a month.

"He took off his football suit," the senator said and everyone smiled.

"He laid down his bat," the senator corrected himself "and to my mind he's a bigger hero than when he was knocking home runs."

Government Acts Have Given Stock Market Confidence

The administration's display of firmness in handling the North American Aviation strike and indications that at last some action is being taken to curb the radical element in labor which is doing its best to hamper and nullify defense efforts is seen as the main factor in better conditions in the securities markets.

On the Stock Exchange Tuesday volume advanced to 825,780 shares, best since May 6 and compared with 440,040 shares Monday, while trading was broadened, 820 issues being traded in. In the Dow-Jones average the industrials, which have shown a less but once in the past eight sessions, had their best advance since the rise started, closing at 121.89, a net gain for the day of 1.73 points. Some profit-taking in the last hour brought the close below the best level of the day. The advance included some utilities and rails and these averages also gained, the rails being up 35 points to 28.20, and utilities advancing 10, to 17.55.

During the day 41 issues made new highs for the year and all but three of the 15 most active stocks had gains for the day—Republic Steel and Curtiss-Wright closing unchanged and Boeing airplane dropping an eighth. General Motors, General Electric, Chrysler and Int. Pap. & Power gained a point or more.

Commodity markets were irregular, cotton and cocoa continuing to advance. Cotton gained 10 to 14 points, going to new four-year high levels for the third day. Wheat Street was active with sales of print cloths around 10,000,000 yards for the day. Dealers in hides still awaited fixing of a price ceiling. Sugar market was active and firm.

The government urged householders to buy winter coal now, anticipating "very grave danger of a shortage" next winter. Meanwhile Secretary Ickes said definitely that costermongers will have to get along with less gasoline for their cars and probably less oil to heat their homes. It is stated that the shortages are threatened not by lack of supplies but by the demands the defense program is making on transportation facilities.

New Booklet on Vitamins

Guide to Healthful Diet

Shocking news, to learn that your youngster needs costly dental treatment, means that your child is not getting enough vitamins. This is what lack of Vitamin C in our diet can do and what it has done to more and more young Americans. Three times as many men are being rejected for bad teeth in the draft today as in 1917.

Yet you can easily get enough Vitamin C in your diet. Tomato juice, orange juice, grapefruit, strawberries are all rich in C. Other vitamins important to get in sufficient quantity are Vitamin A to prevent cataracts, B for steady nerves and a keen appetite, D to build bone and tissue, G for skin and general vigor.

In any green or yellow vegetable or fruit you get lots of Vitamin A. Milk and whole wheat bread are rich in Vitamin B. Dried meats, bread, cereals, meats, fish, eggs, etc., are rich in Vitamin G. No, our new 32-page booklet suggests several vitamin-rich yet modest-cost menus. Gives charts showing vitamin content of every-day foods, the minimum you should get every day to have radiant health, youthful good looks.

Send 10 cents in coin for your copy of VITAMINS TO KEEP YOU FIT to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of book-jot.

upward movements gave a general lift to the stock market today. Fractional gains were the rule toward the last hour, although many shares failed to maintain the levels reached in yesterday's boost. Transactions were at a rate of about 500,000 shares.

On the upside were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas, North American Aviation, Western Union, du Pont, Texas Corp., Great Northern Preferred and Loft, the last reaching a new 1941 high.

Jones & Laughlin Preferred, after early strength, slipped off, then started upward again. Others which were backward from time to time included Consolidated Edison, Johns-Manville and International Paper Preferred.

Bonds were irregular. Most commodities climbed, with cotton more than 50 cents a bale ahead.

Army Says Plane Output Is Almost At Normal Stride

capital and on Beirut, the capital of Lebanon.

Reports from the jig-saw battlefield said that the allies were using loud speakers extensively in appealing to Vichy French soldiers to join Gen. Charles De Gaulle's free French invasion forces and that 600 Vichy troops had already transferred to the allies.

Authoritative quarters in London said French resistance was mostly "patchy," but it was admitted that "stiff opposition" was met by British forces which landed on the Lebanon coast, north of Tyre, under the guns of British warships.

Fighting was also reported at Merjayoun, Lebanon, where British troops were advancing from the northern tip of Palestine.

Scene of Heaviest Action French dispatches said the heaviest action centered along the Litani river, 40 miles below Beirut, the Lebanese capital, where Vichy troops were reported to have thrown back repeated British attacks despite shell-fire from British warships off the coast.

The French said a British column moving up the Euphrates river valley from Iraq had reached border outposts at Abou Kemal, where a pipeline from the Mosul oil fields enters eastern Syria.

London reports said a British detachment—apparently the same one mentioned by the French—was knifing into eastern Syria from Iraq in a drive aimed at the Palmyra air base, on the Mosul-Tripoli oil pipeline.

An oasis cross-roads of desert caravans in olden times, Palmyra is about 150 miles west of the Iraq frontier.

In the Far East crisis, Germany clicked on the green light for her Axis partner, Japan, in connection with the Dutch East Indies dispute.

Recognizes Interest A Berlin spokesman said Germany "recognizes Japan's interest" in the Dutch islands—a fount of such war supplies as rubber, tin and oil—and intimated broadly that Germany would not be averse to seeing Japan include the Indies in Japan's "lebensraum" (living space).

Such a thrust by Japan, raising the possibility of conflict with Great Britain and the United States, obviously would be welcomed in Berlin; but latest advices from Tokyo have indicated that Japan intends to go slow.

The situation developed from the Dutch refusal to yield to Japanese demands for increased exports of oil and other war materials.

On the European front, the British reported that R.A.F. bombers heavily attacked a German cruiser believed to be the 10,000-ton Prinz Eugen in a raid on the German naval base at Brest, France, last night.

"A large weight of bombs" was dropped in the vicinity of the ship, it was said. The Prinz Eugen had escorted the German battleship Bismarck on the venture into the Atlantic which ended in the destruction of the Bismarck May 27 after she had sunk the British battle cruiser Hood.

R.A.F. warplanes also bombed the Nazi U-boat base at St. Nazaire, France, and air bases at May and Mawanger, Norway, it was announced in London.

German planes attacked port facilities at Pembroke, Wales, but otherwise the Luftwaffe appeared inactive over Britain.

On the advice of Wyndham Mortimer, union leader, that it would be "silly" to tell the army what to do, the meeting abandoned an earlier decision to demand that the troops be removed before the C. I. O. men went back.

Col. Branshaw said there would be no discrimination, and Mr. Roosevelt at his press conference promised continuation of mediation and negotiation. North American workers, said the President, will get their regular pay this week, but if wage raises should be granted they will be retroactive to May 1. The basic wage is now 50 cents an hour, but C. I. O. strikers have been seeking a 75 cent minimum and 10 cents an hour increase for workers in higher classifications.

Mr. Roosevelt said the plant owners would get their property back as soon as possible, and added this would be true in other similar cases if any should develop. He said he hoped none would develop.

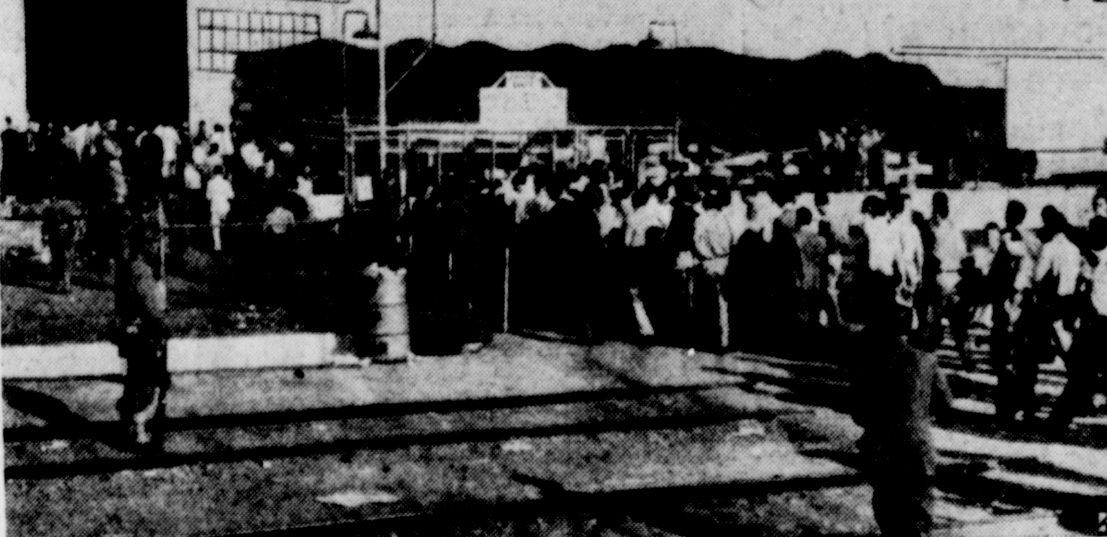

On the scene, Col. Branshaw declared the troops would relinquish control "when and only when the United States government decides the need for them no longer exists."

Ward Group to Meet There will be an important meeting of the Third Ward U. S. O. team tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Knights of Columbus building, 389 Broadway at Andrew street.

Andrew T. Gilday, captain of the Third Ward team and his assistants, Frank Burr and Mrs. George W. Moore are anxious that all people, who have consented to act as solicitors be present. Final instructions will be given and the streets or districts assigned to each worker. It is expected that General Chairman Allen A. Baker will also be present to talk to the workers.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD AS PLANE WORKERS RETURN

AN AVIATION INCORPORATE

With the North American Aviation plant at Los Angeles under control of the U. S. army, steady stream of workers (above) returned to their jobs producing planes for the United States and Great Britain. Army officers reported 3,500 men at work on the day shift in the plant, seized following a strike of C. I. O. unionists.

WORK RESUMED IN AIRCRAFT PLANT

Production of airplanes for the United States and Great Britain was resumed at the strike-bound North American Aviation plant in Inglewood, Calif., after U. S. troops under a presidential proclamation took over the factory and dispersed C. I. O. picket lines. Armed soldiers stood by as the men went back to their jobs.

in victory any vestige of the system of class and capitalism which is still strong. It would also be surprising if these groups did not gain adherents as the war and its hardships progress.

These groups, however, do not now represent any important body of sentiment and they are not likely to exert much influence so long as Churchill stays, for he has utterly convinced the vast majority of Britons that all would be lost by a negotiated peace with Hitler and he has united them in a finish fight.

Should he go, the bewilderment of his millions of followers might make them very susceptible to persuasive arguments for negotiation.

F. D. R. Reports On Lease - Lend

$7,000,000,000 appropriation for aid to countries battling the Axis powers, more than $4,200,000,000 have been allocated for specific use. There was $1,938,823,489 for aircraft and aeronautical material.

To Hold Festival The Ladies' Aid of the Phoenix Methodist Church will hold a strawberry festival on the Simpson lawn, Main street, Saturday morning and afternoon. The proceeds will be for church funds.

NO OTHER PLACE TO SIT

This picture, taken recently, is said by U. S. O. officials to illustrate conditions near many training camps. The nightly and weekend influx of service men has overwhelmed small neighboring communities. Boys on leave can't get into the movies or decent hotels, restaurants or dance-spots. Some can't even find a place to sit. The United Service Organizations will maintain more than 360 spacious club-houses to relieve this demoralizing situation.

Householders Told To Buy Their Coal

Secretary Ickes Is Blunt About Oil Situation, Sees Shortage Certain

Washington, June 11 (AP)—Already confronted by threatened restrictions on gasoline, heating oil and electric power, householders over the nation were admonished today to "buy coal now" lest they face a shortage of this fuel also next winter.

Foreseeing a "very grave danger, of a deficiency due to the defense strain on transportation facilities, a government statement last night urged summer buying and storage of coal as a direct and substantial aid to national defense."

"If consumers do not buy now they may be in trouble later," said Paul Sifton, acting director of the consumers council, federal agency set-up to protect petroleum coal users.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Interior Ickes stopped speaking of the prospective oil shortage merely as "probable" and bluntly announced that people of the eastern seaboard "will have to get along with less gasoline for their cars and probably less oil to heat their homes." Ickes is defense petroleum administrator.

The oil shortage is threatened by transfer to British service of tanker ships normally used to move petroleum from the gulf ports to the east.

Woman on Trial On Arson Charge In County Court

Helen Bennett, charged with arson, first degree, for the alleged setting on fire of the house in which she lived on Canal street, Ellenville, was on trial today in County Court. District Attorney Haver moved the trial of the arson indictment at the opening of court and selection of a jury consumed the early hours of court.

Andrew J. Cook, Jr., assigned to defend Miss Bennett, appeared in her behalf and The People appeared by Mr. Haver and Assistant District Attorney Fred Stang.

It is charged that Miss Bennett set fire to the house in which she resided after a quarrel with a friend. The charge is that she set fire to the house in the night time while other people were residing in the place. In the house at the time, it is alleged, resided Jacob and Bella Goldberg.

It will be recalled that Miss Bennett figured in the trial of Charles James Brown some years ago when Brown was convicted of having murdered Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Handelman at their home in Ellenville and then setting fire to the Handelman home to hide the crime. Brown was later electrocuted.

During the trial it was testified that Brown had spent some time at the Bennett home on the night of the murder and that at that time there had been an argument between Brown and Miss Bennett, who was referred to as Brown's woman friend, and that she had been injured when Brown struck her with an axe. Brown later left Ellenville for Pennsylvania but returned to New York state later and was picked up when he applied for food at the Orange county poor farm and was recognized.

Orson Bogart and Everett Winchell, former Olive residents, died recently in Michigan.
